Renter Warden of the Worshipful Company of Plumbers

Kevin Thomas

Kevin Thomas is a Chartered Accountant and Chartered Tax Adviser with a wealth of experience, a down-to-earth style and a genuinely practical approach to helping people and businesses succeed.

Born and raised in Leigh-on-Sea, Kevin graduated with a 2:1 degree in Mathematics. A colourful mix of temporary jobs during his school and university years helped him discover where his strengths truly lay: accountancy. He went on to train across general practice, audit and tax, building the broad expertise that continues to shape his work today.

Kevin works at Rickard Luckin in Chelmsford, Essex, where he became a partner in 1994. His varied portfolio brings together longstanding clients and exciting new relationships, ranging from ambitious start-ups to larger, established businesses. He has particular expertise in the land and property, legal and charity sectors. Kevin also leads Rickard Luckin's relationship with MGI, a top 20-ranked international network of audit, tax, accounting and consulting firms, helping clients navigate overseas trade and international tax matters with confidence. A familiar and enthusiastic presence at seminars, forums and conferences—both locally and internationally—he enjoys promoting the firm, championing its clients and making new connections.

Beyond his professional work, Kevin plays an active role in two City of London livery companies. He became a Liveryman of the Worshipful Company of Tax Advisers in 1999, joined the Court as Treasurer in 2008 and served as Master in 2016–17. In January 2019, he joined the Worshipful Company of Plumbers and has since progressed from Steward to Senior Steward, Court Senior Assistant and Renter Warden. He also chairs the Finance Committee and, combining service with one of his favourite pastimes, is a member of the Plumbers Golf Society.

Kevin now lives in Essex and has two grown-up children. Away from the office, he is a committed charity supporter and rarely stands still for long. A keen walker, he has completed all 630 miles of the South West Coast Path and now gives something back to the route as a trustee and treasurer of the South West Coast Path Association. He also enjoys running, swimming, golf, tennis and cycling. Having already completed the New York and London marathons, Kevin is preparing to lace up his running shoes once again for the London Marathon in 2027.